

UFOs kidnap and burn victims in terror spree

Alien beings spread terror during a series of vicious UFO attacks in which one man was kidnapped and another pairfully burned.

The first attack occurred as a 29-year-old carpenter, Juan Jorge Gomez, of Rosario, Argentina, lay in his bed reading and listening to the radio.

Juan said he was startled when the lamp and radio suddenly went dead and an intense beam of light shot into the room.

Suddenly, four tiny beings wearing helmets and yellow spacesuits passed into the room through the window.

They were barely three feet tall, said Juan. The beings moved around the bed studying him and talking to each other in strange buzzing sounds as Juan lay in bed frozen in fear.

After buzzing about for five minutes, the strange beings left by again passing through the window.

The next morning a shaken Juan told his family about his experience, but refused to call police fearing they would think him crazy.

Just 12 days later at 11:30 p.m., Juan was walking home from his brother's house when he spied a bright light moving toward him from the distance.

As it closed, Juan said the light appeared as a glowing craft which stopped and hovered above him. He stood looking up at it when he suddenly was "sucked up by the light."

Juan's next memories are vague. He said he thought he was sitting in his armchair in his home as the four strange beings stood and stared at him. This time they were silent.

Juan next remembers standing in front of the town's cemetery.

It was 15 hours later.

His parents had worried and sent local police looking for him.

Incredibly, a doctor found a small black wound on Juan's left index finger.

It looked as if blood had been taken from it.

Another Rosario man Angel German Morassi said he was attacked by a UFO while he was plowing some land on a farm he worked 60 miles north near Santa Fe.

Angel, 37, said he looked up and saw "a big light" coming toward him over the field.

The mysterious light stopped overhead and slowly began to descend.

"I thought it was going to land on my head," said Angel.

The terrified farmer began to run across the field, but tripped falling on his face.

As he turned his head to look back, he said the light "emitted a fiery color," and at the same time he felt a burning pain on his back.

Incredibly, doctors found four circular burns on Morassi's back and another wound on his right forearm.

"He seems to be perfectly well and shows no disturbances that might lead us to think he is fabricating or lying," said Judge Ernesto Giacomini who questioned the farmer.

Doctors who have examined Angel's wounds said that they seemed to have been made by some sort of heat ray.
